

Index of EDR Articles: Volumes 13-16.

BY LISA SMITH

- Allen, J.C., B. Johnson, F. Leistritz, D. Olsen, and R. Sell. 1997. Telecommunications and Rural Business. 15(4): 53-60
- Auyer, Z. D. 1995. Oregon lottery working for Oregon: Lottery funds for economic development. 13 (4): 22-26.
- Barnard, J. M. 1996. The management of crisis. 14 (3): 53-55.
- Barr, S. 1995. Proposal production: Full color and fast? 13 (1): 37-40.
- Beals, C., S. Ehrig, and M. Pelz. 1995. Iowa's proactive strategy for commercial development. 13 (2): 26-28.
- Bee, E. 2000. Latin America: Boom or bust for North American communities? 16 (4): 29-36.
- Bell, D., and K. Evert. 1997. Effective strategies for the future of rural communities. 15 (1): 59-61.
- Berkley, B. 1998. Positive nightclub impacts on entertainment districts. 16 (2): 11-14.
- Blair, J. 1999. Local economic development and national growth. 16 (3): 93-97.
- Blair, J. P. 1997. Sports-based economic development. 15 (2): 51-54.
- Blankenstrip, C. J., 1998. The Loan Guarantee Program: Reducing Direct Loan Admin. 16 (1): 59-61
- Bohmeyer, L. S. M. 1996. Electric utilities and retail wheeling: The effect on economic development. 14 (2): 51-55.
- Bois, L. 1999. Kellogg Foundation. 16 (3): 109.
- Bois, L. 2000. Funding opportunities alert: Community reinvestment grant. 16 (4): 90.
- Bolio, A., R. Martinez, and M. M. Miller. 2000. Professional development notes: First international symposium on forming leaders for economic development in the third millennium, Morelia, Mexico, February 2000. 16 (4): 59-60.
- Bradford, R. 1996. Elements of a BEAR (Business Expansion and Retention) program. 14 (3): 8-12.
- Brammer, R., and J. S. Tomasik. 1995. Retail potential analysis for local economic developers. 13 (2): 32-42.
- Bring, M. 1995. Advanced multimedia economic development systems. 13 (1): 50-52.
- Brown, J. A. 1995. Using an interactive multimedia presentation in economic development marketing. 13 (1): 41-44.
- Budd, E. R. 1996. The role of the community college in regional economic development in the Commonwealth of Virginia. 14 (2): 43-46.
- Burke, W. A. 1997. Workforce development: Oklahoma knowledge works. 15 (4): 35-39.
- Burt, J. L. 1996. The AEDO Program: In search of organizational excellence in economic development. 14 (1): 26-28.
- Buser, S. 1995. Using the DeLorme MapExpert. 13 (1): 83-87.
- Byrer, T. 1997. Using total assessment audits to help Iowa's manufacturers compete. 15 (1): 27-29.
- Campbell, H.S., Jr. 1999. Assessing the costs and benefits of incentives in a Carolina county. 16 (3): 21-26.
- Canada, E. P. 1997. A shark-proof marketing plan. 15 (1): 40-47.
- Canada, E. P. 1998. Rocketing out of the twilight zone: Gaining strategic insights from business retention. 16 (2): 15-20.

Index of EDR Articles: Volumes 13-16.

BY LISA SMITH

- Allen, J.C., B. Johnson, F. Leistritz, D. Olsen, and R. Sell. 1997. Telecommunications and Rural Business. 15(4): 53-60
- Auyer, Z. D. 1995. Oregon lottery working for Oregon: Lottery funds for economic development. 13 (4): 22-26.
- Barnard, J. M. 1996. The management of crisis. 14 (3): 53-55.
- Barr, S. 1995. Proposal production: Full color and fast? 13 (1): 37-40.
- Beals, C., S. Ehrig, and M. Pelz. 1995. Iowa's proactive strategy for commercial development. 13 (2): 26-28.
- Bee, E. 2000. Latin America: Boom or bust for North American communities? 16 (4): 29-36.
- Bell, D., and K. Evert. 1997. Effective strategies for the future of rural communities. 15 (1): 59-61.
- Berkley, B. 1998. Positive nightclub impacts on entertainment districts. 16 (2): 11-14.
- Blair, J. 1999. Local economic development and national growth. 16 (3): 93-97.
- Blair, J. P. 1997. Sports-based economic development. 15 (2): 51-54.
- Blankenstrip, C. J., 1998. The Loan Guarantee Program: Reducing Direct Loan Admin. 16 (1): 59-61
- Bohmeyer, L. S. M. 1996. Electric utilities and retail wheeling: The effect on economic development. 14 (2): 51-55.
- Bois, L. 1999. Kellogg Foundation. 16 (3): 109.
- Bois, L. 2000. Funding opportunities alert: Community reinvestment grant. 16 (4): 90.
- Bolio, A., R. Martinez, and M. M. Miller. 2000. Professional development notes: First international symposium on forming leaders for economic development in the third millennium, Morelia, Mexico, February 2000. 16 (4): 59-60.
- Bradford, R. 1996. Elements of a BEAR (Business Expansion and Retention) program. 14 (3): 8-12.
- Brammer, R., and J. S. Tomasik. 1995. Retail potential analysis for local economic developers. 13 (2): 32-42.
- Bring, M. 1995. Advanced multimedia economic development systems. 13 (1): 50-52.
- Brown, J. A. 1995. Using an interactive multimedia presentation in economic development marketing. 13 (1): 41-44.
- Budd, E. R. 1996. The role of the community college in regional economic development in the Commonwealth of Virginia. 14 (2): 43-46.
- Burke, W. A. 1997. Workforce development: Oklahoma knowledge works. 15 (4): 35-39.
- Burt, J. L. 1996. The AEDO Program: In search of organizational excellence in economic development. 14 (1): 26-28.
- Buser, S. 1995. Using the DeLorme MapExpert. 13 (1): 83-87.
- Byrer, T. 1997. Using total assessment audits to help Iowa's manufacturers compete. 15 (1): 27-29.
- Campbell, H.S., Jr. 1999. Assessing the costs and benefits of incentives in a Carolina county. 16 (3): 21-26.
- Canada, E. P. 1997. A shark-proof marketing plan. 15 (1): 40-47.
- Canada, E. P. 1998. Rocketing out of the twilight zone: Gaining strategic insights from business retention. 16 (2): 15-20.

- Canada, E. P., and T. A. Rendleman. 1996. Locked in the twilight zone: Business retention fails the strategic value test. 14 (3): 27-31.
- Carn, N. G., J. S. Rabianski, and J.D. Vernor. 1995a. Structural trends impacting retail businesses. 13 (2): 10-12.
- Carn, N. G., J. S. Rabianski, and J.D. Vernor. 1995b. Impact of thoroughfare improvements on neighborhood shopping centers. 13 (2): 29-31.
- Cartee, C. 2000. A case study of selected economic changes stemming from gaming. 16 (4): 67-72.
- Cartee, C., and G. Gordon. 1997. The gaming industry's effect on economic activity of the Mississippi Gulf Coast. 15 (2): 47-50.
- Catts, B. 2000. The Kherson, Ukraine-Tucson, Arizona community partnership program. 16 (4): 61-62.
- Celeste, R. F. 1996. Strategic alliance for innovation: Emerging models of technology-based twenty-first century economic development. 14 (1): 4-8.
- Chambers, R. E. 1996. Rural development planning: A time for change. 14 (2): 21-23.
- Chase, T. 1998. Tips on using trade shows in economic development marketing. 16 (2): 87-92.
- Cobb, R. H. 1997. Flexible business networks. 15 (1): 30-32.
- Cole, B. 1998. The power of regional thinking: Surviving a Navy base closure. 16 (1): 4-8.
- Coles, C. H. 1995. Using a technology-based information management system to better serve business. 13 (1): 29-31.
- Cossio, E. C. 2000. Foreign investment opportunities in Cuba. 16 (4): 49-50.
- Cotton, W. H. 1995. The entrepreneurs learning service: An information resource. 13 (1): 61-63.
- Dancy, C. H. 1995. Using technology in the office of the High Point Economic Development Corporation. 13 (1): 23-28.
- Davis, M. S. 1996. Using CompuServe for practical economic development. 14 (1): 51-52.
- Davis, M. S., and E. A. Neu. 1996. Growing your organization through the Accredited Economic Development Organization (AEDO) Designation Process. 14 (1): 22-25.
- Devine, J. A. 1995a. Developing the retail base: The case of Glendale, Arizona. 13 (2): 46-50.
- Devine, J. A. 1995b. The dark side of economic development. 13 (3): 62-66.
- Dodd, D. A. 1996. Opportunity knocks: Five steps toward a winning existing business development program. 14 (3): 16-18.
- Donaghy, D. 1996. The other side of the tracks: Local response to a deregulated railroad industry. 14 (3): 50-52.
- Driskell, L. C., and D. A. Ivey. 1995. A public policy analysis of gaming industry development: A Mississippi case study. 13 (4): 40-43.
- DuBrow, M., and J. Rucker. 1998. How to create a high technology incubator on a brownfield. 16 (2): 73-76.
- Eadington, W. R. 1995. Economic development and the introduction of casinos: Myths and realities. 13 (4): 51-54.
- Eaton, L. J. 1997. Creating jobs through exporting. 15 (2): 59-60.
- Economic Development Board of Singapore. 2000. Singapore's one-stop approach to economic development. 16 (4): 42-44.
- Edwards, J. 1999. Book review: Learning to lead: A primer on economic development strategies. 16 (3): 105-106.
- Engelking, S. 1998. Austin's economic growth: A case study in futuristic planning. 16 (2): 21-24.
- Evans, A. 1999. Technology: Econdata.net. 16 (3): 107.
- Falcone, T., L. D. Allen, and R. Vatter-Vance. 1996. A comparison of rural and urban economic development programs in Pennsylvania. 14 (2): 63-67.
- Ferri, M. R. 1996. An economic development response to the competitive challenges of utility restructuring. 14 (3): 36-40.

- Finnegan, R. P. 1997. Help wanted: Hiring a CEO for an economic development organization. 15 (2): 20-26.
- Foden, H. G. 1995. The professional development challenge of the next decade. 13 (3): 4-8.
- Ford, S., and R. H. Pittman. 1997. Economic development through quality improvement: A case study in Northeast Georgia. 15 (1): 33-35.
- Forgey, F. A., P. R. Goebel, and B. Nixon. 1995. Addressing tenant site selection to maintain shopping center success. 13 (2): 56-59.
- Friar, J. 1999. Role of incentives in economic development. 16 (3): 3-7.
- Galloway, R. F. 1997a. Community leadership programs: New implications for local leadership enhancement, economic development, and benefits for regional industries. 15 (2): 6-9.
- Galloway, R. F. 1997b. Strategy for economic development: A model at a regional university in Kentucky. 15 (2): 43-46.
- Gardner, C. 1996. Building social capital: The case of Mineral County, Nevada. 14 (2): 60-62.
- Gardner, C. 1998. Retirement: A new career. 16 (2): 83-86.
- Garrison, D. C. 1997. World-class training center helps South Carolina companies compete globally. 15 (4): 40-42.
- Gero, J. 1997. Creating successful communities and successful economic developers. 15 (2): 10-14.
- Gibson, L. and E. Glenn. 1999. The Round Valley Region Economic Base Study: A generic study of three hypothetical communities. 16 (3): 53-62.
- Gibson, L., and E. Glenn. 2000. A note on location factors, clusters, and the indirect primary concept. 16 (4): 63-66.
- Ghanem, S. 1996. "Successful partners": A promotion strategy for Scarborough business and the City of Scarborough. 14 (2): 14-15.
- Ghanem, S. 1997. Local economic development process and government policy-making: An international perspective. 15 (2): 30-32.
- Goldman, G., A. Nakazawa, and D. Taylor. 1997. Determining economic impacts for a community. 15 (1): 48-51.
- Goodman, L. R. 1995a. Market analysis of reservation-based gaming: A North Dakota case study. 13 (4): 16-18.
- Goodman, L. R. 1995b. Legalized gambling: Public policy and economic development issues. 13 (4): 55-57.
- Grabow, D. 1998. The economic imperative: Year 2000. 16 (2): 25-26.
- Graybill, D. W. 2000. Promoting local-level economic exchange and U.S.-Japan city-level cooperation. 16 (4): 40-41.
- Greeley, P. J. 1995. Energizing boards, commissions, task forces, and volunteer groups. 13 (3): 24-27.
- Green, K. A. 1995. FYI*NY Economic Development Software System. 13 (1): 53-57.
- Greenspan, B. 1997. Long Island in the Post Defense Dependency Era. 16 (2): 27-32.
- Grefe, E. A. 1997. Grassroots or grasstops: Your call...your gamble. 15 (2): 15-17.
- Grossman, H. J. 1998. Regional economic development in the 21st Century. 16 (1): 9-13.
- Gruenen, N. J. 1995. Revolutionary changes in retailing. 13 (2): 7-9.
- Gudmundson, K. L. 1996. City of Orem, Utah's revolving loan fund. 14 (2): 37-42.
- Gulotta, C. 1996a. Formulating an economic development performance bonus program. 14 (1): 43-44.
- Gulotta, C. 1996b. Initial public offerings and their marketing implications for the economic developer. 14 (2): 29-30.
- Gunderson, R. 1998. The impact of senior living in Arizona: How communities can serve the retiree market. 15 (2): 77-82.
- Halikdes, M., and E. M. Ekanayake. 1999. Manufacturing extension: Adding value to the economic developers' toolbox. 16 (3): 83-88.

- Halikdes, M., and E. M. Ekanayake. 2000. International business and economic development: Introducing basic facts. 16 (4): 3-14.
- Handley, G. 1995. Responding to the challenge of professional development: The programs of AEDC. 13 (3): 12-15.
- Harald, C. 1995. Recruiting retail investment. 13 (2): 43-45.
- Harper, G. 2000. Web site review: <http://www.epn.org>. 16 (4): 91.
- Haywood, C. 1999. A report on the significance of Toyota Motor Manufacturing Kentucky, Inc. to the Kentucky economy. 16 (3): 37-46.
- Henthorne, T. L., and A. J. Williams. 1995. The gaming industry: The role of competitive analysis and market positioning. 13 (4): 19-21.
- Hines, B., and S. Clark. 1997. The competitive advantage model: The case of business retention and expansion in Bowling Green, Ohio. 15 (1): 18-22.
- Hise, R., and A. Nelson. 1998. Strategies for promoting urban brownfields re-use at the state and local level. 16 (2): 67-72.
- Hurley, K. 1998. Skilled labor shortages in manufacturing: Rochester & Monroe County plans to assist its manufacturers. 16 (2): 93-96.
- Iannone, D. T. 1995. Economic development education: Future development and directions. 13 (3): 31-35.
- Ipson, G. Y., M. Forman, and J. D. Rohrer. 1995. The state's role in economic development education: Some existing models. 13 (3): 36-39.
- Jacobs, J. 1997. From swords to suppliers: The role of a community college in defense conversion. 15 (4): 26-29.
- Johnson, S. R. 1996. Helping firms expand into international markets. 14 (3): 43-46.
- Joy, E. R. 1996. Existing industry program: The backbone of economic development. 14 (3): 25-26.
- Joy, E. R. 1998. Make the future happen: A model for strategic planning. 16 (2): 33-34.
- Kelly, S. 1996. The Main Street Program in Mississippi. 14 (3): 56-59.
- Kingsfield, B. 1996. On-line upcountry: Science and technology as an economic development tool in a non-urban setting. 14 (1): 9-13.
- Kirchhoff, M. K. 1996. Enhancing international business development through an international trade and investment summit. 14 (3): 47-49.
- Klohs, B. 1996. Building a new retention strategy. 14 (3): 13-15.
- Knotwell, J. 1995. Adapting to the entrance of discount retail chains: The case of the North Platte Nebraska Area. 13 (2): 70-74.
- Knowles, R. N. 1996. Building a community and sustainability together. 14 (1): 19-21.
- Kolzow, D. R. 1995. Smooth sailing with your board of directors. 13 (3): 20-23.
- Kolzow, D. R. 1998. A perspective on strategic planning: What's your vision? 16 (2): 5-10.
- Kolzow, D. R., and R. Swager. 1998. Introduction to the strategic planning theme: Strategic planning in economic development. 16 (2): 3-4.
- Kswas, R. B. 1997. Exporting financing. 15 (2): 61.
- Laird, D. M. 1996. Geographical changes in Money Magazine's "Best Places To Live" rankings. 14 (2): 24-28.
- Lakeway, D. E. 1996. Strategic listening: The key to Ohio's economic development success. 14 (1): 66-68.
- Landrum, B. A. 1997. "Gold Collar" technicians essential to chip industry in Greater Phoenix. 15 (4): 4-7.
- Lann, R. and W. Riall. 1999. LOCI: A tool for local fiscal and economic impact analysis. 16 (3): 27-32.
- Larsen, M. D. 1995. Gaming industry development: A comparison of three states. 13 (4): 4-8.
- Lawhead, T. 1995. A comprehensive strategy for rural downtowns. 13 (2): 75-81.
- Lawin, G. B., and D. G. Chaplain. 1995. Obtaining technological resources for the economic development office. 13 (1): 11-18.

- Lawrence, G. 1996. Pulling the plug from the pressures of economic development. 14 (1): 69-72.
- Lawson, M. M. 1997. Economic Development Corporation of Utah: Lessons learned from the first 10 years. 15 (3): 58-60.
- Lefler, T. 1997. School-to-work programs combine classrooms, corporations, and community. 15 (4): 43-44.
- Leigh, N.G., and J. Wilkins. 2000. Software industry: The big picture and the view in Georgia. 16 (4): 73-85.
- Lemay, B., and C. Bryant. 2000. A model for developing foreign investment programs. 16 (4): 51-58.
- Lenzi, R. C. 1996. The entrepreneurial community approach to community economic development. 14 (2): 16-20.
- Leslie, B., M. K. Aring, and B. Brand. 1997. Informal learning: The new frontier of employee and organizational development. 15 (4): 12-18.
- Levens, H., M. Forman, and G. Rich. 1996. "One if by land and two if by sea..." 14 (3): 32-35.
- Levine, A. T. 1997. Winning the economic development marketing game. 15 (3): 6-10.
- Lichty, R. W., and K. R. Knudsen. 1999. Measuring regional economic base. 16 (3): 47-52.
- Loedding, P. A. 1998. A checklist for forming a regional development organization. 16 (1): 35-37.
- Loveridge, S. 1997. Guidelines for research reports in business retention and expansion programs. 15 (1): 3-7.
- Magruder, S. 1998. Rogue software and geographic information systems. 16 (2): 35-38.
- Malizia, E. E. 1996. Two strategic paths to competitiveness. 14 (2): 7-9.
- Malizia, E. E., and R. Winders. 1999. Improving creation strategies: Tracking gazelles in Georgia. 16 (3): 9-11.
- Maples, M. S. 1996. Business retention: The basics and beyond. 14 (3): 4-7.
- Martin, G. S., R. J. Sjolander, and W. L. Huth. 1998. Benchmarking public opinions toward regional economic development issues. 16 (1): 24-29.
- Martin, T. L. 1995. Evaluating the next position: Successful career advancement in economic development. 13 (3): 59-61.
- McArdle, J. K. 1996. How to create new business prospects: A telemarketing guide for economic developers. 14 (1): 57-59.
- McClure, J. E. 1995. Reservation gaming: Key issues for economic developers. 13 (4): 9-11.
- McQueen, T. 1996. Using on-line technology for community information exchange: City of Nanaimo's experience. 14 (1): 16-18.
- Meyer-Arendt, K. J. 1995. Casino gaming in Mississippi: Location, location, location. 13 (4): 27-33.
- Meyers, C. R. 1995. Attracting factory outlet stores can spell success for a community. 13 (2): 51-55.
- Michigan, C., and K. R. Dorshimer. 1996. Siting major projects and the NIMBY phenomenon: The Decker Energy Project in Charlotte, Michigan. 14 (1): 60-62.
- Millar, S. L. 1995. Establishment of a geographic information system in a county economic development office. 13 (1): 76-82.
- Miller, M. M. 1999a. Introduction to the incentives and other location factors theme. 16 (3): 2.
- Miller, M. M. 1999b. Industrial incentives: The response from the profession. 16 (3): 33-35.
- Miller, M. M., and C. T. Davenport. 1995. Academic and economic developers: The challenge of cross-cultural understanding. 13 (3): 40-44.
- Morgan, G. M. 1996a. Creating a local leadership development program. 14 (1): 36-38.
- Morgan, G. M. 1996b. Leadership in economic development: The case of the closing of Chanute Air force Base in Rantoul, Illinois. 14 (1): 39-42.

- Morrison, M. A. 1995. Computers—so many choices, so little time. 13 (1): 8-10.
- Morse, G. N., and I. Ha. 1997. How successful are business retention and expansion implementation efforts? 15 (1): 8-13.
- Murk, P. 1998. The planning wheel: The Sandstone Community Case Study. 16 (2): 47-50.
- Murk, P., and J. Walls. 1998. The planning wheel: Dealing with decisions and the internal and external forces. 16 (2): 39-46.
- Nelson, A. C., W. J. Drummond, and D. S. Sawicki. 1998. Determinants of exurban industrialization with local economic development policy implications. 16 (1): 30-34.
- Noel, Y. 1997. Exporting from the Delta. 15 (2): 55-58.
- Nollette, D. S. 1996. Evaluating the performance of an economic development program: The case of electric utilities.
- O'Hara, C. P. 1995. The impact of Indian gaming on a tribal economy and economic development strategy: The White Mountain Apache experience. 13 (4): 12-15.
- Oliver, E. E. 1997. Providing windows of opportunity to corrections professionals. 15 (4): 19-21.
- Olivier, M. J. 1995. Casino gaming on the Mississippi Gulf Coast. 13 (4): 34-39.
- Peck, J. E. 1996. The effect of deindustrialization on area income: Myth vs reality. 14 (2): 31-36.
- Peppard, D. M., Jr. 1995. In the shadow of Foxwoods: Some effects of casino development in Southeastern Connecticut. 13 (4): 44-46.
- Perniciaro, R. C. 1995. Casino gambling in Atlantic City: Lessons for economic developers. 13 (4): 47-50.
- Phillips, P. D. 1996. Business retention and expansion: Theory and an example in practice. 14 (3): 19-24.
- Phillips, P. L. 1995. Merging entertainment and retailing. 13 (2): 13-15.
- Phillips, R. 2000. Crossing the digital divide, Caribbean style: Investing in telecommunications for economic development. 16 (4): 20-25.
- Pilkington, R., D. G. Chaplain, and D. Conrad. 1998. Estimating potential labor supply in a mid-sized Iowa community. 16 (1): 17-23.
- Pittman, R. H., and M. M. Miller. 2000. International development: Introduction to the theme. 16 (4): 2.
- Pittman, R. H., and R. P. Culp. 1995. When does retail count in economic development? 13 (2): 4-6.
- Plumstead, J., and J. D. McNiven. 1997. Benchmarking for the future of Atlantic Canada: A development comparison (determining the international competitiveness of Atlantic Canada). 15 (2): 27-29.
- Post, T. 1998. The role of economic developers in capital budgeting. 16 (2): 51-54.
- Pumphrey, G. 1997. Workforce preparedness: A community partnership for economic development. 15 (4): 30-34.
- Pyplacz, B. M. 1995. Analyzing a retail trade area. 13 (2): 22-25.
- Pyplacz, B. M., and R. Fine. 1995. Technology and the small economic development office. 13 (1): 19-22.
- Radakovich, D. 1997. Johnson County Community College, Burlington Northern Sante Fe Railroad form unique partnership. 15 (4): 22-25.
- Rao, M. P. 2000. Town and gown partnership: A win-win strategy. 16 (4): 86-89.
- Raughton, J. L. 1997. Colorado community colleges: Full partners in economic development. 15 (4): 8-11.
- Read, W. H., and J. L. Youtie. 1995. LaGrange, Georgia's "Field of Dreams": Economic development and telecommunications in a rural area. 13 (1): 70-75.
- Richardson, J. R., R. O. Coppedge, and R. Czerniak. 1995. New Mexico rural economic assistance link. 13 (3): 55-58.
- Riley, R. M. 1995. Producing knowledge in economic development through the management of information. 13 (1): 4-7.

- Robertson, R. W. 1997. Public and private partnerships in economic development: The role of the Alberta Economic Development Authority. 15 (3): 23-27.
- Rosebrock, H. 1998. The dynamic changes and locational shifts in the U.S. steel industry. 16 (2): 55-60.
- Rowe, H. 1995. Interactive compact disc as a medium for economic development: A case history at Illinois Power. 13 (1): 45-49.
- Roybal, C. A. 1996. Comparative operating cost analysis: Bottom-line incentive for expanding and relocating companies. 14 (1): 53-56.
- Ryans, J. K., Jr., and W. L. Shanklin. 2000. Export assistance needs for small business: Are they being met? 16 (4): 26-28.
- Sabety, J. P., and J. M. Griffin. 1996. Pro-competitive alliance: New vehicles for regional, state, and community based economic development. 14 (2): 2-6.
- Scott, R. K. 1995. Broadcast fax to communicate with multiple constituencies. 13 (1): 58-60.
- Sell, R. S., and F. L. Leistritz. 1997. Asking the right questions in business retention and expansion surveys. 15 (1): 14-17.
- Selvidge, S. P. 1996. Employee job termination strategies. 14 (2): 56-59.
- Shanklin, W. L., and J. K. Ryans, Jr. 1999. Cultivating home-grown entrepreneurial economies. 16 (3): 77-82.
- Shaw, W. 1997. Regionally specific strategies to alleviate rural poverty. 15 (1): 52-58.
- Shively, R. W. 1997. Small town economic development: Principles of organizations. 15 (3): 43-46.
- Shore, W. A. 1997. Training: Going against the flow. 15 (2): 33-35.
- Shove, C. 1996. A simplified, globally competitive economic development policy framework. 14 (2): 10-13.
- Simon, J. A. 1996. The Fort Devens Reuse Plan. 14 (1): 63-65.
- Sloan H. J., III, F. A. Wiebe, and D. A. Tosh. 1995. The campus and economic development in Tupelo, Mississippi: Modeling a journey from early vision to enhancement. 13 (3): 45-54.
- Smersh, G. T. 1995. Creating an industrial property database (with GIS capabilities) for an economic development organization. 13 (1): 88-90.
- Smith, C. M. 1996. AEDO accreditation: A tool for increased organizational competitiveness. 14 (1): 29-31.
- Smith, D. W. 2000. Investment promotion: Asia/Pacific style. 16 (4): 37-39.
- Sonnerup, K., R. Savitt, and P. Sullivan. 1997. Universities working with communities to foster entrepreneurship: A case study in rural Vermont. 15 (2): 36-42.
- Stabler, J. 1998. Technology planning can speed economic development. 16 (2): 61-66.
- Stewart, E. J. S. 1995. Making a community retail ready: The Town of Markham, Ontario experience. 13 (2): 16-21.
- Stewart, V. L. 1997. The existing business development program of Danville and Vermilion County, Illinois. 15 (1): 36-39.
- Stone, D. G. 1995. Impact of Wal-Mart stores on Iowa communities: 1983-1993. 13 (2): 60-69.
- Stucki, H. 1998. Shell Buildings as Development Tools. 16 (1): 55-58.
- Stucki, H., and G. Andrews. 1998. Knowledge-based economic development. 16 (2): 97.
- Sullivan, P., C. Halbrendt, Q. Wang, and E. Scannell. 1997. Exploring female entrepreneurship in rural Vermont and its implications for rural America. 15 (3): 37-42.
- Surridge, R. W., C. M. D. Martin, and C. L. Kilko. 1997. Using industry clustering for business retention and expansion. 15 (3): 20-22.
- Swager, R. 1997. The Status of Degree Granting Programs in Economic Development. 15 (4): 45-52.
- Swager, R. 2000. Book review: Understanding local economic development. 16 (4): 92.
- Taylor, C. S. 1995. Using volunteers in economic development. 13 (3): 28-30.

- Thomas, J. R. 1995. Skills needed by the economic developer. 13 (3): 9-11.
- Toll, M. M. 1998. Regional workforce center strengthens pool of skilled labor in Salina, Kansas. 16(1):14-16.
- Toronto, J., and G. Gerjerts. 1997. The university and existing business development: The case of the University of Northern Iowa and Collis Tool Company. 15 (1): 23-26.
- Troncoso, J. 2000. CORFO: The Chilean Economic Development Agency. 16 (4): 45-48.
- Ullman, D. A., S. Williams, and J. Emal. 1996. Using technology to stimulate rural economic development activity: Nebraska's community Internet. 14 (1): 14-15.
- Vallin, T. 1998. Protecting Businesses from the Year 2000 Bug. 16 (1): 62
- Vercauteren, P. J. 1996. Career fair for high school sophomores. 14 (1): 48-50.
- Wagner, K. C. 1997. Holistic ED. 15 (2): 18-19.
- Wagner, M. L. 1995. Downtown business development: The example of Sheboygan Falls, Wisconsin. 13 (2): 82-84.
- Wagner, M. L. 1996a. Collaborative economic development organizations in rural Wisconsin. 14 (1): 32-35.
- Wagner, M. L. 1996b. The role of business retention in downtown revitalization. 14 (3): 41-42.
- Waits, M. J. and J. A. Vandegrift. 1999. The Achilles heel of future economic growth: The workforce development challenge. 16 (3): 63-72.
- Warren, B. P. 1996. Assessing the policy implications of state incentives: Firm specifics vis-à-vis economic growth strategies. 14 (2): 47-50.
- Waugh, J. 1999. Taking care of business and unexpected benefits. 16 (3): 73-75.
- Weddle, R. L. 1995. Preparing tailored fact books and prospect proposals. 13 (1): 32-36.
- Weddle, R. L., and D. Ramey. 1995. AEDC 2005: Shaping a strategy for the 21st Century. 13 (3): 16-19.
- Weinstein, B., and T. Clower. 1999. The southern U.S. economic 1980-1998: Growth without prosperity. 16 (3): 89-92.
- Whaley, J. W., and S. S. LaCroix. 1997. Advanced targeting simplified. 15 (3): 1-19.
- Whittaker, D. F. 1992. Targeted marketing using electronic information resources. 12 (2): 62-64.
- Williams, S. 1995. The Internet—exploring its uses for economic development. 13 (1): 64-69.
- Wood, C. 1999. Choctaw Indians and economic growth. 16 (3): 99-103.
- Wood, C. 2000. The global economy as a contemporary issue in the practice of economic development. 16 (4): 15-19.
- Woods, M. D., and T. S. Smith. 1997. Rural Enterprises Incorporated of Oklahoma: A case study of a rural innovation and finance center. 15 (3): 52-57.
- Yager, E. 1997. University Center technical assistance and strategic plans for local economic development. 15 (3): 47-51.
- Yagiela, R. A., and D. B. Munson. 1997. Turn workplace training into a competitive advantage. 15 (3): 28-36.
- Yarzebinski, J. A. 1996. Information and training: The foundation for building a path to excellence. 14 (3): 60-64.

BIOGRAPHY

Lisa Smith is a recent graduate of the Masters Program in Economic Development at The University of Southern Mississippi.